- Average online survey response rate is 44.1% (Meng-Jia et al. 2022*).
- 2024 Employee Campus Climate Survey demonstrates significant improvements in overall response rate and total participation.
- Results related to overall campus climate and staff perspectives can be considered highly valid due to good representation and data triangulation between quantitative and qualitative data .
- Findings specific to faculty should be interpreted with caution due to their underrepresentation and may need targeted follow-up research.
- Managers' perspectives, while valuable, should be understood as potentially having a slightly outsized influence on overall results due to their overrepresentation.
- The 251 respondents (28.2%) who did not answer the employee group question impact the representativeness analysis.

123 out of 1684 needs improvement comments

More professional development for managers, directors, and executive staff

Training opportunities for all the different software that employees use

More opportunities like PRIDE - ECC Professional Growth Certification.

I would like more professional development opportunities geared towards staff/administrative personnel specifically. Right now, most of them are tailored for faculty or student-facing staff. While these are extremely important, it excludes those who work in administrative support. I would also like departments to take the lead on training other areas about processes within their areas. For example, Procurement Services/Accounts Payable - how to complete a requisition and submit invoices for payment; Fiscal Services - Budget Tracking/Transfers;

Discipline/Difficult Conversations training, particularly for Deans and Managers for their faculty and employees for situations that require consequences but don't fall under HR/Title IX.

better/fair/equitable remote work policy in Student Services and Administrative Services areas

We proved during COVID that my position could be performed 100% remote. I want that for all employees capable of doing so. My job is completely computer based, and I don't meet/work with anyone directly on campus. Keeping as many people off the roads in Los Angeles as possible should be a priority; it helps protect our environment, cuts down on traffic, and creates less wasted time for those of us being forced to commute just to sit alone in a cubicle on-campus.

Executive Leadership (Top #2 topic)

133 out of 1391 needs improvement comments

I believe there is room for improvement in the leadership style exhibited by my executive leaders in team meetings. A more respectful and trusting approach towards direct reports would enhance team morale and foster a more unified, transparent work environment that aligns with the positive image presented to the broader community.

The top level of leadership could be more transparent and work on trusting & appreciating its employees better.

Resources and opportunities are distributed on our campus in a very uneven fashion. Some areas are treated favorably, others are not. Executive leadership is perceived to have "favorites," and those favorites are in the inner circle for decision-making and for resources. Rather than resources - positions, growth opportunities, etc. - being distributed based on our institutional goals or on merit, the insiders keep getting opportunities and other areas are neglected.
