➤ Iris

- Sent out memo to all of the managers who report to Iris asking them to review and tweak their campus shut down protocols, just in case the state and or the county goes back into a lockdown.
- Each of you need to look at what you do and if that work can be done remotely or do you need to can on campus. Make sure that you have had those discussions with your supervisor to make sure that if the county and or the state that shut us down again, that it is a smooth transition and that nothing falls between the cracks and then all our vital services are performed.
- There have been many emails going out in the last several week about the race and equity workshops that is going on the campus. There are a number of committees working on different issues. If there is an interest, there is nothing precluding you from volunteering to sit on one or two of the workgroups.
- We do have two new board members who will be joining the board at the December meeting.

Question: Do you think, in your opinion With the new administration taking charge in Washington DC will that change the funding,?

Answer: It is a function of whether or not Congress passes another bailout for the States. With there being a new Congress coming in January all the bills will be dead. The new Congress will have to start the process over again or restructure the old bill, which is going to take time.

Since our governor releases his proposed budget in January, then that's still another six month process because it has to have hearings and will be reviewed by the California legislature for the state budget. Then the governor and the state legislature have to come to an agreement about what the funding will be based on projections, etc. That does not happen until May, with the May revise and then the actual budgets are voted on before June 30th deadline.

Budget will be based on the projections for state revenue, we do not know what that will be until the final bill for the wildfires are tallied up, we will have a pandemic raging and that cost has to be put in also. In addition, the state owes the community college system $660 million from July 1st of revenue that they differed. Budget for FY2021-22 will be even tighter if the federal government does not pass any stimulus.

Meeting adjourned at 9:25 a.m.
